Introit standing

Give peace, O Lord, to them that wait for thee,
and let thy Prophets be found faithfull:

regard the prayers of thy servant, and of thy people Israel.

I was glad when they said unto me:

We will go into the house of the Lord.

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son, and to the Holy Ghost;

As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be, world without end.

Amen.

Give peace, O Lord, to them that wait for thee:

and let the prophets be found faithfull.

Communion Sentence

Bring the offerings, and come into his courts:

O worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness.

Holy Communion

The Sacrament is offered in both kinds, both bread and wine. If you choose not to receive the wine, please fold your arms X, and remain at the rail to hear the words of administration. If the rail is full to the middle, please go as far to the left as possible before you kneel so that others will not have to walk over your legs.

10.30 a.m. 75

OCTOBER 25th CRISPIN and CRISPINIAN, Martyrs who tradition says were born to a noble Roman family in the 3rd century AD, Crispin and Crispinian fled persecution for their faith, ending up at Soissons, France, where they preached Christianity to the Gauls while making shoes by night. It is stated that they were twin brothers

They earned enough by their trade to support themselves and also to aid the poor. Their success attracted the ire of Rictus Varus, governor of Belgic Gaul, who had them tortured and thrown into the river with millstones around their necks. Though they survived, they were beheaded by the emperor c. 286.

The St Crispin's Day speech is a part of William Shakespeare's history play Henry V. On the eve of the Battle of Agincourt, which fell on Saint Crispin's Day, Henry V urges his men, who were vastly outnumbered by the French, to imagine the glory that will be theirs if they are victorious. “Crispin Crispian shall ne'er go by, From this day to the ending of the world, But we in it shall be remembered—We few, we happy few, we band of brothers; For he to-day that sheds his blood with me. Shall be my brother;”

from The Crown of the Year by Austin Farrer, weekly paragraphs on the Holy Sacrament. St Francis de Sales says that it is a special sign of God's goodness that he actually commands us to love him. It is wonderful enough if he permits us to love him; a few brave spirits might avail themselves of due permission. It is still more wonderful if he invites us to love him the responsive and the generous might answer the invitation. But he commands us to love him, because he will have us all to do so. He will not be deprived of any man's love. Nor will he be deprived of any part of our love, for he commands us not merely to love him, but to love him with all our heart, soul, mind, and strength. The love of God holds out two hands to catch and take us: one is the commandment that we should love, the other is the act of his own love in the sacrifice of Jesus. He does not mean that we should escape him; see, he has taken us between his two hands.
